

Baby Chart

Compliments of Ann Reynolds

This chart was taken from a Royal tomb near Peking, China. A Chinese scientist discovered the chart that was buried for over 700 years. It's believed to be 99% accurate. Enjoy!

Simply find the age the mother will be when she gives birth and match that column with the one that corresponds with the month in which that baby was conceived. The box at which the columns overlap will contain an "M" if a male is to be expected or an "F" if a female is likely.

Couples who want to choose whether they have a boy or girl might want to know which month they should be particularly "active".
